

Law to provide for Central fire zone, Stricter building rules

Before a property owner in Newmarket builds a home, he will require a plan approved by a building inspector. The passing of a building by-law, in the process of adoption by council now, will create a fire limit along Main St. between Davis Dr. and Water St.

Restrictions will be made on the types of building material used in this area. Detailed regulations on building, repairing and altering premises make up 22 pages of Newmarket's building by-law.

The only serious objection made by members of council reviewing the by-law Monday night dealt with the powers of the building inspector.

"We shouldn't give any official a blanket power just to walk into any building he likes," Mayor Jos. Vale commented. Council had been dealing with a section which would give the inspector the right to enter a building which he believes is being used for a purpose unsuited to its construction. Permits could be revoked by the inspector.

"It is doubtful that one man's opinion justifies stopping the construction of a building," said Councillor Tom Birrell. The point was laid over for further discussion.

The by-law requires that an applicant for a permit submit plans and specifications for his proposed building to enable the inspector to obtain complete information on it. A block plan to show the location in respect to street and property lines and an estimated cost of the building would be necessary.

If plans and specifications do not comply with the by-law, the inspector can refuse to issue a permit making further construction illegal.

Fees for permits which cover a wide range of construction under a cost of $2,000 would be from 50 cents to $2. Penalties are up to $30 fines for each breach of any provision in the by-law.

The Main St. fire zone would end the construction of frame buildings. All outside walls would be built of incombustible material and the same requirements would be made for roofing.

Aurora commission Seeks permanent home, Talks swimming pool

The choice of a suitable place to carry on its activities came up for consideration at the meeting of the Aurora recreation commission last Thursday night. Tom Dixon, director of recreation, reporting on the progress that had been made in this direction so far, stated he had been given to understand that at least two of the local churches would offer the use of some of their rooms for handicraft classes.

T. F. Swindle said while they appreciated this response from the churches he thought the commission should not be obliged to shop around for needed accommodation. What it needed was a permanent roof over its head. Later Mr. Swindle brought in a motion that the town council be asked to grant the commission use of Mechanics' Hall when it is vacated by the present tenant. This was passed unanimously.

A proposal to hold a Halloween skating party at the rink was made by Mr. Dixon. This, it was pointed out, was not to interfere in any way with the plans being made by the school but rather to co-operate with it in helping to draw all age groups. The matter of organizing such an affair was left with Mr. Dixon.

A report was received from the special committee appointed to investigate the possibilities of having a public swimming pool constructed. A concrete pool at least 30' by 60' was suggested, but no estimate of cost was given. The report pointed out the necessity of finding a central location for the pool such as the public school grounds. An undertaking of this nature presents a financial problem for which the commission has yet to find the (Page 7, Col. 4)

Lesser beings (for a day) bowed low to the master at Newmarket high school last Friday. The master in this case is Harvey Evans, Queensville, president of the students' council and two grade nine initiates are Marian Sedore, Queensville, on the left and Gordon Calvert, Gorham St., Newmarket, right.

Make-up mix-up, tortures, Fate of N.H.S. initiates

It was initiation day for the grade nine first year students at Newmarket high school last Friday. The initiates were humbled before students of higher grades and teachers during the day, tolerated tortures in the early evening but later celebrated it all at a "hard times" party and dance.

Last year it was merely a "hard times" dance at night but 1950 inaugurates the first day-long affair. The girls were obliged to attend classes in dad's shirt backwards, a berry basket for a hat, one running shoe, one not running, long skirt, no make-up and carrying a shopping basket.

The young lads wore a pyjama top backwards, mother's nylon rolled to the knees, similar footwear, short pants, make-up and a bandana worn charmingly.

These lesser beings were obliged to bow to anybody from a higher form or a teacher within 20 paces. At night the grade nines were enjoying games and dances in the auditorium when they were called upon to suffer such atrocities as being led outside, through the gym, blindfolded and unshod through leaves and stones and spaghetti. A forced diet consisted of flour and water.

Before resuming the dance, the unfortunates sorted through a mound of shoes to recover their own footwear. Several of the new students declared that the effects of the hazing were offset by the good time they had.

Barber quartet Appears with 1890 thriller

The stage of the Newmarket town hall is being haunted by the past this week. The Dramatic Club has been putting the finishing touches to its famous old thriller of the Victorian theatre, Dirty Work at the Crossroads. The play runs for three nights at the end of next week. Thursday night will be for children, and adults on the nights of November 3 and 4.

A feature of the production will be a between-the-acts performance of a costumed barber-shop quartet. Members of the quartet are Alex Eves, Gene McCaffrey, Charles Boyd and Bob Wallace. The quartet will sing a number of immortal classics popularized at the turn of the century.

The gay nineties melodrama, Dirty Work, tells the story of Nellie Lovelace, an innocent country girl, of Adam Oakhart, a stalwart blacksmith's son and Munro Murgatroyd, the villain from the big city. Munro has a wife in Ida Rhinegold, the belle of the New Haven music halls but she does not prevent him from pursuing the innocent Nellie and tearing her from the arms of her dying mother. Munro is not above driving Adam to drink, blackmailing rich Mrs. Upson Asterbilt or from bewitching her daughter, Leonie.

The play features such old time songs as "All That Glitters is not Gold" and the "Old Cuckoo Clock."

Skaters set new mark In attendance at arena

Skating attendance marks were broken at the Newmarket Memorial Arena Saturday night. 416 skaters were in attendance to set a new record says Rink Manager Stan Smith. Difficulty in securing delivery of the new light shades has temporarily halted the completion of that phase of the arena renovation campaign. Nine lights have been installed to date. The balance of 24 lights is expected to arrive this week. The work will then be completed without delay. Bill Denne local electrician holds the contract for the work. When completed the arena should be one of the best lighted cushions in the district.

Must set example, Live up to teaching, Newmarket Lions told

"We must do more than preach. We must practice what we preach. We must live up to the professions we make. We must encourage by example." This was the message that Dick Edmunds, Richmond Hill, deputy district governor, brought the Newmarket Lions club on Monday night at the regular meeting in St. Paul's parish hall.

Mr. Edmunds traced the growth of the Lions International from the idea in the mind of Melvin Jones, founder of Lionism, to its present stature of a membership of 402,000. Mr. Edmunds insisted, however, that the code of Lionism had to be lived before it could have meaning.

He quoted the Lions slogan: "Liberty, Intelligence, Our Nation's Safety". Those words, he said, mean: "Liberty in which to exercise our intelligence to protect our nation's safety." He urged members to seek out the true meaning of the phrase. He charged that "we had become lazy thinkers, too willing to accept someone else's opinion instead of thinking the problem through for ourselves."

"I hear the word security used a lot," he said. "It is an overworked word. This country would never have been built to its present prominence if it had not been for men ready to take a chance on their own ability."

He urged members to examine themselves. Were they living the tenets of their club code? They expected trust; were they prepared to trust others? They expected the goodwill of others; were they prepared to offer that goodwill?

Overworked Few
He said that it had been his experience that the work of the club fell upon the shoulders of an overworked few. "It is not the amount of money a club raises which counts, but the number of hours of effort each member of the club devoted to such projects, the amount of time each member gave towards his fellows." No club, he said, is better than the individual members.

Telling the growth of Lionism from 50 clubs in 1917, to 8,050 clubs in 29 countries in 1950, Mr. Edmunds said it was not the fact of the large membership which was important, but the underlying principle of unselfish service. Mr. Edmunds was introduced (Page 7, Col. 4)

Aurora arena Improvements Near completion

Outside work on the Aurora arena is almost completed. The front entrance steps are being finished this weekend. The roof on the new section will be completed by Friday. Carpenters will move inside either today or tomorrow to complete the seats and the ramp leading along the rear of the seats.

It is expected the pouring of a mastic floor on the Recreation room will be started this week. When completed the room will not only serve as a lobby but may be used at any time for dancing or meetings. The section will also house the ticket office, sound room and main coffee bar.

Cushion boards were built at the west end of the ice surface and both Aurora junior teams and intermediates have held practice sessions. At present the teams are using a temporary dressing room.

Mayor to welcome Shirley Andrews In Ice Revue Friday

At the International Ice Revue at the arena tomorrow night, Mayor Jos. Vale will give an official welcome to Shirley Andrews. Miss Andrews, a Newmarket girl, joined the show last year and this will be her first appearance with the Revue in Newmarket.

An official travelling with the show said this week that the organization is trying to promote Canadian skating talent. All the line girls in the Revue at present are Canadians.

The appearance of girls like Shirley Andrews is a start for Canadian ice shows and big talent," he said.

School children, especially those with ambitions for figure skating, will be able to meet the star of the show, Miss Eileen Seigh, at Spillet's store on Friday afternoon after school.

Schomberg Lions Visit Aurora club

Schomberg Lions Club turned out 17 strong, more than half of its membership, Tuesday night when it was the guest of the Aurora club. The program, put on by the visitors, started off with a novel and amusing feature called "Passing the Buck" in which Messrs Cook, Dale and Russell, past presidents of the Schomberg branch, took part.

The speaker of the evening, Vic Marchant, president of the visiting club was introduced by chairman Dr. A. W. Boland. In his address on "Children of Today" Mr. Marchant emphasized the value of the work being done by the service clubs to meet the challenge of juvenile problems and to help youngsters, especially underprivileged ones, to become useful citizens.

Two interesting moving pictures in technicolor, "Ducks Unlimited" and "Salmon Run on the Fraser", were shown followed by a cartoon and a sing-song.

An interchangeable, illuminated, polyplane painting called "Metropolis" will be shown at an art exhibition starting at Pickering College on Saturday, Nov. 5. The exhibition will be of paintings and mobile sculpture by Harold Haydon who was resident artist at Pickering College 1933-34.

The polyplane painting "Metropolis" consists of four glass panels set in a special light-box frame so that the painting is illuminated from behind.

The glass panels of the painting are interchangeable and each one can be turned eight ways. All together, it has been calculated that there are more than 98,000 different combinations possible for this one painting.

Era-Express wins David Williams Cup For best editorial page

The Newmarket Era and Express has been awarded the David Williams Cup for its editorial page. The award was announced this week at the national convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association at Quebec City.

The David Williams Cup is the second editorial award for The Era and Express this year. In June, the paper was awarded the Legge Memorial Trophy for the best editorial page among Ontario-Quebec members of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association.

The David Williams Cup is presented to the weekly newspaper judged to have the best editorial page of all Canadian weeklies in the 3,000 or more circulation class. There were 31 papers entered in the competition including papers from as far to the east as the Corner Brook, Newfoundland, Western Star, and as far west as the Kamloops, B.C., Sentinel.

The Chilliwack, B.C., Progress and the Midland Free Press Herald were tied in second place, and the Barrie Examiner placed third.

Judging was done on four consecutive issues of the papers. A maximum of five points was given for impressiveness, and 20 points for opinion and material. Here is the way the first five papers were judged: Era and Express, four of a possible five points for impressiveness, 17.50 of a possible 20 for opinion, for a total of 21.50 of a possible 25; Chilliwack Progress, four of a possible five, 15.75 of a possible 20 for opinion, for a total of 19.75 of a possible 25; Midland Free Press Herald, 4.75 of a possible five for impressiveness, 15 of a possible 20 for opinion, for a total of 19.75 of a possible 25; Barrie Examiner, four of a possible five for impressiveness, 14.25 of a possible 20 for opinion, for a total of 18.25 of a possible 25; Swift Current Sun, four of a possible five for impressiveness, 13.50 of a possible 20 for opinion, for a total of 17.50 of 25.

In the first competition, The Era and Express placed 17th in 31 entries, and in the all-round competition, The Era and Express placed 11th in 31 entries.

The Legge Memorial Trophy is displayed in the front office of The Era and Express, and when the David Williams Cup has been received, it will be placed beside it.

Movies and skating For children at arena Halloween party

Ice in the Newmarket arena will not halt the usual Halloween party for the school children this year. Lorne Paynter, chairman of the recreation commission and special Halloween party chairman Charles VanZant are taking advantage of Newmarket's first fall season with early artificial ice.

After children's Halloween costumes are judged next Tuesday night there will be an hour of movies followed by an hour of skating. For the first time in history Mother Goose, Little Red Riding Hood, ghosts, goblins and friends will be carrying their skates.

The program starts at the five schools, St. John's, Prince Charles, King George, Stuart Scott and Alexander Muir at 6.30 p.m. where preliminary judging will be conducted. The pupils will leave the schools sharply at 7 p.m. to proceed to Queen and Main Sts. where all will join forces and parade down Main St. The Newmarket Citizens' Band and Trumpet Band will lead the parade.

The children will move into the arena seats and final judging will be under the direction of J. B. "Jimmy" Walker. Among the judges are George McCullough and Ang West from the Lions club, Lorne Paynter and two from the Optimist club and one from the dramatic club.

Following the presentation of prizes there will be an hour of movies featuring Donald Duck and Popeye of cartoon fame. Free skating will be from 9.30 to 10.30. The usual Halloween treats will be passed out to girls and boys as they leave the arena.

Members of the recreation commission, sponsors of the night, school teachers, both town bands and members of the Home and School club are co-operating with arrangements. The Newmarket Lions club has offered to help with the cost of staging the event.

In case of rain the pupils are to proceed directly to the arena from schools instead of following the parade route. Pre-school children are to proceed directly to the arena from their homes, arriving there at 6.30 p.m. when judging for this class will take place.

Friday night, Nov. 3 Open house at school

The Newmarket public will have an opportunity to inspect the new Prince Charles school on Friday evening, November 3. On the preceding night there will be an official civic opening which will be attended by department of education officials, school board members but it will not be an open meeting.

"Since we will have limited accommodation for the opening ceremonies on Thursday night, we are sending invitations for the event," said Mrs. M. B. Seldon, chairman of the public schools board this week.

Mrs. Seldon said that anyone who is unable to go to the school on Friday night from 7.45 to 8.30 may see through the building Thursday night between 9.15 p.m. and 10 o'clock.

Friends and neighbors rallied to assist Mrs. Oliver Boyle whose husband died suddenly early Monday afternoon while doing construction work. The Boyles had been preparing to move to Thornhill on the following day, Tuesday, when Mr. Boyle died. Many acts of kindness were extended by all the neighborhood where Mr. Boyle was highly esteemed. "He was a friend to everyone, the type of person who inspired confidence," one resident said.

Oak Ridges Girl Guide Company is without a leader. Lieut. Joan Appleton, who has been acting captain to replace Miss Phyllis McKenna, finds the responsibility of 20 Guides more than she can handle as a younger Guide member. Guide activity is being temporarily held up until a much needed senior leader comes forward.

A collection of comic books for Aurora Mental Hospital, Yonge St., is being made by the Guides. The boys there enjoy the pictures as an evening's amusement. In a couple of week's time, the Guide company expects to have quite a contribution providing local residents save the booklets for the collections. Mrs. D. R. Gunn is looking after the arrangements.

York County teams
Place in top five
At O.A.C. competition

Teams representing three York County clubs made creditable showings in the Inter-Club Competitions at Guelph on Friday as some 200 teams representing dairy and beef calf clubs, swine, potato, grain, poultry, tractor and forestry clubs competed in their respective divisions.

The best showing was made by the York County Baby Beef club team of Jocelyn and Aileen Easton, Gormley, who placed second to Peterborough among 28 teams. Particularly outstanding was Jocelyn's achievement of having the highest individual score in the competition.

The Victoria Square Tractor Maintenance club was represented by Bob Petch, Gormley, and Trevor Watson, Agincourt, and this team placed fourth among teams representing 31 clubs. This was the first time that tractor clubs competed in this annual competition.

The Sharon Calf club team of Lloyd Baldon, Sharon, and David Crone, Mount Albert, made a fine showing as well, placing fifth among 58 teams in the strong dairy competition.

The contest, held at the Ontario Agricultural College and sponsored by the Ontario department of agriculture, serves as a means of selecting the best teams in the province to represent Ontario at the national club contests held at the Royal Winter Fair. Two deserving members of an organized club in the province may be selected to represent their club and consequently receive special coaching in judging.

In most divisions contestants are required to judge four classes in the morning, give reasons for their placings after dinner and

Guelph Psychiatrist
To address Sutton
Soil and Health Club

When a member of the medical profession proclaims his absolute faith in the indivisible connection between health of the human and the health of the soil it is an important impetus for the Soil and Health movement in Canada. Dr. F. H. C. Baugh, Guelph, not only proclaims and practises his faith in health through organically fed soil but he has accepted the presidency of the Soil and Health Association for Canada. In that capacity he is coming to Sutton for the evening meeting of the local Soil and Health club on November 6 to address the members. He will talk on the type of citizen who evolves from a baby fed from birth on natural food.

Dr. Baugh, a psychiatrist, is head of Homewood Sanitarium in Guelph. Steadily over the past three years Homewood has been making compost and producing organically grown food for the inmates of the institution. The compost making in itself is found to have therapeutic value. New ovens in the bakehouse provide whole wheat bread from composed and freshly milled grain, and there is a pasteurization plant against the time when there can be a herd free from disease, and organically fed which will provide safe milk.

Junior Championship
Won by McCloskey bull

York county cattle were prominent at the ninth annual East-Central Ontario Championship Holstein show held October 18 at Peterborough. H. C. McCloskey, Queensville, took the junior championship for bulls on Illebee Sovereign Supreme who was an outstanding winner in the senior yearling bull class. This animal received strong consideration for the grand championship. McCloskey also had the fourth prize three-year-old heifer.

B. W. Naylor, Weston, showed the second prize three-year-old bull who stood next in class to the Grand Champion of the show. In addition, Naylor brought out the fourth prize junior bull calf. Russell Boynton, Woodbridge, showed the third prize senior yearling bull, L. S. Livingston, Woodbridge, the fifth prize senior bull calf and Wm. L. Edwards, Schomberg, the fourth prize senior yearling heifer.

The York entry stood third in the county herd class.

The winners will compete in plowing matches in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland. The trio will spend six weeks in the United Kingdom with all expenses paid as guests of Imperial Oil.

Champion plowmen
To tour Old Country
With expenses paid

Canada's champion plowmen, winners in the Esso Trans-Atlantic classes at the 37th International Plowing Match recently concluded at Alliston, will have V. C. Porteous, former member of parliament and prominent Grey county agriculturist, as team manager on their overseas tour, it is announced by Roy Shaver, president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

The champions are Hugh A. Leslie, 28, Georgetown, Ont., and Herbert Jarvis, 27, Agincourt, Ont., gold medal winners in the tractor and horse plowing classes respectively. Accompanied by their team manager they will spend six weeks touring the British Isles with all expenses paid as guests of Imperial Oil. During the tour they will compete in matches and observe agricultural methods in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Runners up in the same classes were J. G. Tran, Claremont, tractors, and Albert Dickie, Jerseyville, horses. Each received silver medals and $150 in cash. There were 12 other cash prizes in each class.

For all members of the overseas team it will be the first visit to the British Isles although all are of Old Country stock. They hope to take time off from their extensive itinerary to look up distant relatives and visit places familiar to their ancestors.

Herbert Jarvis, winner in the horse class, is closest to the Old Country for his grandfather was the first in his family to settle

Dear Cris,
I am badly in need of your help. A few weeks ago, I met a boy at Varsity and developed a crush on him. He was in a difficult position because his weekend was already planned for him, and he had no choice of what girl to take out. One night, however, I managed to spend an hour or so with him, and he explained that he couldn't get away from his set date for a whole evening. It was evident that he had no special interest in her. Through reliable sources I learned that he would have taken me out, had it been possible. Now, I'm away at a boarding school, and seldom get out, except on Saturdays until 9:30. However, on November 11, we get a weekend, and I will be staying with a friend in Toronto. Naturally, I'd love to go out with him, but he has no idea as to when my weekend is. How can I make it known to him? I saw him at the football game last Saturday and he was really quite friendly, no doubt I'll see him again next week, but I can't just say, "How about a date on November 11?"

I might add that I am in a class with a girl who goes with his best friend.

I do not believe that you have any real problem; you like the boy, and I gather from your letter, that the boy likes you. Your only problem seems to be arranging a date for November 11. You ask me how you can make it known to him. Why not ask his friend's girl to drop a few subtle hints about your whereabouts for the weekend of November 11. It seems to me to be quite likely that he will ask you about this weekend before that anyway, that is, if you will be seeing him next week.

I wish you the best of luck, and feel quite certain that you will have a very enjoyable weekend.

Dairy farmers, especially, are aware of the big benefits that can be gained through artificial insemination. For example, over 5,000 cows were bred through one artificial unit in Ontario during a single year. IF YOU ARE WAITING FOR A TELEPHONE, or for a higher grade of service, you have our assurance that you will have it just as quickly as you provide the necessary facilities. Our continuing goal is to provide the kind of service to all who want it, when and where they want it.

It has become the custom to send out texts of addresses, copies of annual reports and other forms of news in advance so that editors have an opportunity to study the material and evaluate it. Sometimes, an editorial may be called for, or the material rewritten to give it a local slant. Seldom is the confidence placed in editors to observe the release date violated.

During the war, we were on the copy desk of the Montreal Gazette when the allied commanders met in Casa Blanca. There had been confidential warnings released over the news wires that something was up, and the editors on the copy desk were placing bets as to just what it was. And then, a day or two before the conference, the news of the meeting, we received further confidential information that at a certain hour of a certain day, the news would be released.

We were all considerably excited by this time and it was difficult to keep the secret to ourselves. Not a hint of the something big had been printed anywhere although all newspapers had been given the advance notice. And then, on the morning of the day the news was to be given out, our paper received a huge batch of photos showing Churchill and Roosevelt and other allied leaders grouped together against a semi-tropical background.

The Gazette was a morning paper. That evening, around 7 p.m., the bells on the teletype began the frantic ringing which warns that a special news bulletin was on its way. We rushed to the machines. The message said to stand by for a special news flash. A few minutes later, the bells rang and a second warning came over the wires. Then finally, the story of one of the major events of the war came over the wires.

There were no ringing bells or warning news flashes when we received a letter telling us that The Era and Express had won the David Williams Cup for its editorial page. The letter also included the stern injunction not to publish the information until after a date in early September when the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association would hold its annual convention in New Brunswick and the awards would be announced.

It was difficult to be quiet about the award. We wanted to tell the whole world, but there it was—we had to wait. And then the rail strike cancelled the convention in New Brunswick and we began to wonder if we ever could make our announcement. A new convention site was chosen, Quebec City, and it was dated for this week. New instructions came from the Association central office: we would have to wait until this week, when the convention was in progress to make our announcement.

It was a thrilling experience to be in possession of such momentous news as the Casa Blanca meeting before it became general knowledge to the public. But keeping the secret was not nearly so difficult as keeping the secret of our editorial award.

At that, we blush to print news of the award in this edition which contains here the confession of an error. Nothing important, mind you, simply a matter of a misplaced decimal point. But it does make us feel pretty silly. Our first intimation of the blunder came last Thursday night when Jim McCullough, the assistant agricultural representative, phoned to ask what was the source of our information on the "Grain King" whose picture we had printed on page ten last week. "Got it from the news service," we told him. "Well, something appears to be wrong. According to your information, the man sowed two bushels of seed over two acres and harvested 722 bushels an acre. Rather exaggerated, don't you think?"

"Well, um, well, um," we muttered. "Might have been 72 point two," suggested Jim. "Yessir, that's what it was," we told him. A slight typographical error.

ERA AND EXPRESS WINS AWARD

The Era and Express has been awarded the David Williams Trophy for the best editorial page among weekly papers in Canada in its circulation class of 3,000 and over. The recognition is a source of deep personal satisfaction to the editor, made the richer because it is shared by our readers. It is axiomatic in the newspaper business that a good paper is found only in a good town; they go hand in hand; there can't be one without the other.

The editorial page of The Era and Express is written for our readers, and as satisfying as is the judgment of our professional contemporaries, in the final analyses, our measure of success rests with the judgment of our readers.

WHAT LACK OF TASTE!

Every school child knows, says the Financial Post, or should know that a grandfather of one of our outstanding prime ministers led an armed rebellion 113 years ago. The Post also notes that two grandsons of Louis Riel, the western rebel of 1870 and 1885, are veterans of the second great war and now with the Korean Brigade.

The Post concludes that "examples like these lead one to hope that even the descendants of the Canadian communists of today may one day become useful and loyal citizens to this country."

For heaven's sake! Imagine bracketing the names of the Little Rebel and Riel with those of Fred Rose and Tim Buck. The Post's hope that children may escape the sins of their fathers may have some meaning but it hardly excuses a comparison between the rebels of yore whose zeal was for liberty, and present-day communists whose only purpose is mass enslavement.

A JOB TO BE DONE

There's a job to be done at the mental hospital in the former De LaSalle school south of Aurora. Dr. W. R. Reddick, superintendent of the hospital, told a visiting group of ladies that contributions of comic books, coloring books and hard candies would be greatly welcomed. Of the 250 boys who were in the hospital, only 75 of them had parents or friends sufficiently close to them and sufficiently interested to send them these little gifts.

Every Friday night, the gifts are distributed to the boys but often there is not enough to go around. At the present time, a group from the Aurora Business and Professional Women's club pays a weekly visit and distributes gifts. If other service clubs were to join the Aurora group, the inmates would be assured of a constant outside attention. Something along the lines of the York County Hospital Aid comes immediately to mind. Such an organization, with its roots in almost every community in North York, would have adequate resources to assure each boy of his share of attention.

There is another reason for this public interest. Dr. Reddick summed it up in his recent address to the Oak Ridges Home and School Association when he said the hospital, and others like it, can do nothing without the support and interest of the public. "It is a pitiful thing that nature has given us the mentally defective but there is a place for them," he said. "As a Christian country, it is the duty of home and community to help such persons become useful."

And again, when speaking to members of the Snowball Women's Institute, he mentioned the dislike of visiting such a hospital which is so prevalent. But how else is the public to learn of what is being done and what remains to be done to assist the mentally defective? As unpleasant as thoughts about mentally defective children may be, such children are born and a place must be made for them. If the service clubs and other community groups were to organize to assist in the work the government has undertaken, not only the boys in the hospital but the communities so represented would benefit, in the dissemination of knowledge and understanding about a condition which is becoming increasingly a public burden.

WE ARE NOT CHILDREN ANYMORE

The legislative fathers on parliament hill are ten years behind their constituents. They still seem to consider the public at a too tender age to be told the harsh facts of existence. Even Prime Minister St. Laurent, in announcing the formation of the Korean Brigade, did so on the radio with the patience and simplified reasoning of a father to his children.

Mr. Blair Fraser, writing in the current issue of Maclean's Magazine, strengthens the conviction that our leaders refuse to acknowledge the maturity Canadians have reached in the last ten years. From the Press Gallery, he says, the attitude of the ministers towards the present war situation seemed to be: "Relax, folks; we have the situation well in hand."

The paradox, he adds, is that few, if any, cabinet ministers are as complacent in private as they are in public. "At the beginning," he writes, "perhaps they did take the Korean incident a little too calmly but for months now, they have been profoundly worried." Unfortunately, few Canadians are in the position of Mr. Fraser to observe the private worry. All we have observed so far is the public complacency, and it is disquieting.

After all, cabinet minister or dishwasher, we are all in this together, and if the former is worried about the way things look, it is not at all unreasonable to ask that he shares his worries with the latter. It is not the sacrifices we will be called upon to make, but the lack of direction which worries us. Let us have done with this keeping the worst from the children and have some plain talking for a change. We're old enough to take it.

ANTI-AMALGAMATION FEELING GROWS

The Era and Express has maintained through these columns a running opposition to Toronto's proposal to amalgamate the suburban areas since last January. We oppose amalgamation for several reasons: The most pertinent is that it would mean Newmarket, Aurora and the remaining municipalities of York county would be obliged to pay a doubled levy should amalgamation be approved.

At the root of Toronto's desire to absorb its suburbs is a rising cost of administration and a limited source of revenue. In their essence, the city's arguments boil down to a desperate need for the increased tax revenue they would have from the amalgamated area. We do not see, however, why Toronto's plight should be made the occasion for doubled county taxes from the municipalities in North York.

But even without such a consideration, amalgamation is no answer to Toronto's difficulties. Amalgamation is nothing less than expediency; Toronto's difficulties come from its size. Are they to be cured by making the city still larger? The answer to big cities is not to make them bigger at the expense of their neighbors, but to regard them for what they are: obsolete forms of community life which will require special attention until they can be adjusted to current trends of planning and financing.

When Toronto proposed amalgamation and the Ontario government sanctioned the proposal with Premier Frost's ultimatum of "amalgamate or else", there was little real opposition to the proposal in the city. During the year, there has been a growing disfavor first with the manner in which the city approached the issue, and more recently, with the proposal for amalgamation itself.

The most recent expression towards the latter is contained in the resolve of the C.I.O. and A.F.L. trade union organizations in Toronto to run three candidates for municipal office. A major plank in the labor platform is opposition to amalgamation in favor of the county's alternative proposal of a metropolitan scheme which would permit the suburbs to retain their separate identities but enable a closer co-operation on uniform civic services.

A labor spokesman put his finger on the major concern in the whole amalgamation issue: "Before anything is done, the provincial government should be asked what its position on grants will be after a new metropolitan scheme is established."

The whole difficulty in the manner in which Toronto has been encouraged to solve its financial problems is that the city has been considered as simply another municipality which needs more territory. This over-simplification has resulted in the present impasse, of the city proposing and the suburbs opposing. Toronto has a serious financial problem but there are other ways of solving it than to penalize the suburbs and the rest of the county, and in the end, accomplish nothing but a few years of temporary relief.

The city must be treated for what it is, an anachronism which requires special care until it can be re-adjusted to changing times. This special care would be best given in the form of grants. Toronto has been treated like any other municipality for most, if not all, of the grants it receives from the province when in reality, it requires special attention because of the unique problems imposed upon it by its size.

If the province were to consider the city for what it is, instead of encouraging a conception which is outmoded, much of the city's problems would never arise. Instead of forcing the city into a straight jacket, new methods of financing it, and at the same time, limiting its growth in favor of a decentralized metropolitan area, should be explored and legislation governing municipal administration brought up to date.

Slim Bliggins has been accepted by the Group of Eleven. The Group of Eleven is a long-look-down-the-nose society of painters who have set themselves up as the cultural untouchables of East Thimbleberry township. They long have been recognized by the elite as the only contemporaries in East Thimbleberry with the right to interpret and paint its life and times.

Our own home born artist, Slim Bliggins, has been considered a renegade painter by the Group of Eleven until lately. At first he was ignored but Slim painted on. Then he was scorned, but Slim painted on.

"Scorn's just a kind of recognition," said Slim Bliggins, painting on.

It was not until Slim had his September open air exhibition at his shack near the railway tracks that real signs of hope came. Seven of the Eleven attended. Mo Naleeza, one of the Group, was the first to crack. Scrutinizing Slim's most recent work, Rusty Nail Car Axles and Shadows, he commented, "Ugh."

"Hmmm," said Cyril Izzem, brother of the well known interpreter of oriental culture, Bud Izzem. "It is truly an example of the environmental effect on the artist."

"Yes, truly an example of," said a third member.

"We have been overlooking a true genius," said a fourth member.

"Yes, a true genius," said a fifth member.

And so it came to pass that Slim Bliggins, our natural born primitive artist, was accepted by the Group of Eleven.

The problem which confronts the Group of Eleven now is that it can no longer be called the Group of Eleven because there are 12.

"We have been known as the Group of Eleven since 1905. Now that we have an additional member, what are we going to be the group of?" asked their president at a recent meeting.

The Group has decided to wait and see. One of the members, Will B. Senile, the oldest in the Group, is at present doddering away his last days in a nursing home. The last reports were that he was very low. Old Doctor Upfees has said, in fact, that his pulse has receded right up to his elbow.

"There wouldn't be a more appropriate time for Will B. to pass on to his reward," said Mo Naleeza. "At the same time he would be doing justice to the Group of Eleven. After all, it must never be felt that we are tearing ourselves away from tradition. The Group of Eleven must always be the Group of Eleven."

So the matter stands, awaiting the passing of Will B. Senile.

Your favorite cat correspondent interviewed our own Slim Bliggins at his shack by the railway tracks yesterday. "How do you feel, Slim, about practically being one of the Eleven?" I asked.

"Being one of the Eleven is a true honor, to be sure," said Slim as he lit up the butt of his after breakfast El Finado cigar. "But at all things, being one of the selected few puts a faller on of the group of them. I'm not sure, however, that I won't be passing on more for them nature's ultimate paintings. The Eleven's above that sort of thing."

A report says that our controlled potato marketing school, which is operative this year in some counties, is apt to be a failure. The reason given is that there is a large crop to handle and prices are low.

Farmers on soil that can be worked early always get in on the high price for early potatoes. Other farmers having a large acreage in potatoes and having an interest in some wholesale business, can dispose of their stock at an advantage. These two classes of farmers are opposed to orderly marketing.

An estimate is taken of the amount of potatoes there will be to market, and a price is set. This system of orderly marketing gives every producer a chance to get part of his crop sold at a fair price.

Another reason given for the orderly marketing not being popular is that the farmer is too much of an individualist. It is a wonderful thing to be able to do and think things for oneself. The farmer has built up around that individualism a form of selfishness that becomes a liability instead of an asset. It is the duty of the farm people to our nation to produce food of the best quality and in constant supply; to employ the best methods in production and to improve livestock breeding. The most important duty the farmer has to our nation is to hold the productivity or fertility of the soil.

When individualism becomes selfishness, the farmer can only see dollars and cents in his business.

This small minority group of farmers that has a favored way to market its produce cannot supply the demand. Why should the majority of producers be deprived of a fair price because of a few selfish individuals?

Labor has taught us the lesson that if one worker is unfairly dealt with, the whole shop will demand an adjustment. If we farmers are to take our rightful place in our economy, we must

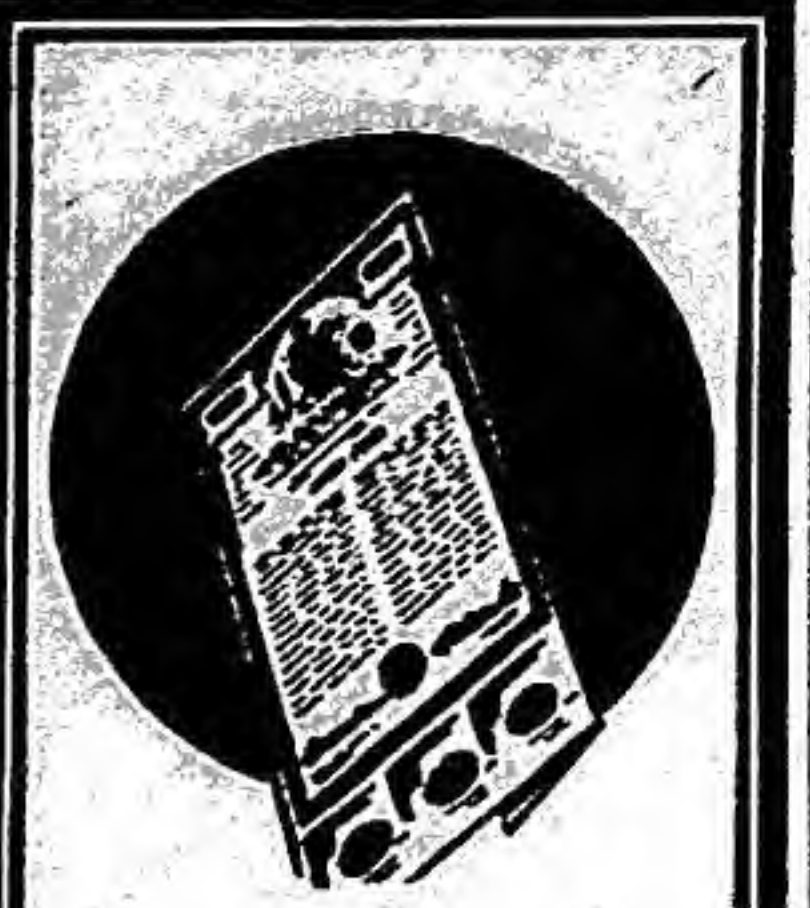

Our farm marketing scheme is just and fair to the consumer as well as the producer. Are a few farmers going to allow a few selfish farmers, backed up by a few unprincipled speculators, to disrupt and scrap our Ontario farm marketing scheme? Our marketing act for Ontario is based on what has proven to be a benefit to producers in four other provinces and in time will become a benefit to the consumer. It is high time we farmers should broaden our thinking and forget our selfishness. Cheerio.

An Aurora Opinion

DOROTHY BARKER

Aurora Editor

Aurora needs a swimming pool. At least, that was the opinion expressed by the members of the recreation commission when a report from the committee dealing with this matter was presented to the meeting of the Commission Thursday night by T. F. Swindle.

The suggestion made previously, that a spot in the creek running through the town be dammed up to form a swimming hole, was discarded as unwise. Fear of contamination, or the possible washing away of the dam structure during the spring freshet, was the reason given for turning this suggestion down.

The fact that 50 to 70 children, even more some days, were transported by bus to Wilcox Lake every Wednesday morning during the past summer, is evidence that swimming facilities are a real need. Something should be done locally, the Commission feels, to provide a safe and adequate pool for the children of the town.

Learning to swim ought to be a "must" in the physical training of every child. No other form of exercise does as much to build strong, well proportioned bodies, or to correct certain physical defects.

and drag around each day, unable to do the work—cranky with the children—feeling miserable, don't blame it on "nerves". Your kidneys may be out of order—for when kidneys fail the system clogs with impurities and headaches, backache, disturbed rest, frequently follow. Mothers who were a bit concerned this summer about letting their young folks travel by bus to a lake several miles away would be able to go with their children and watch them swim, perhaps swim with them, if Aurora had a pool.

Of course, the greatest stumbling block in the way of implementing such a project is money. Concrete and labor are not cheap these days. An appeal for support to any or all local organized bodies would likely be met with the objection that it is hardly the time to vote or raise money for a swimming pool with winter bearing down upon us. If, however, a group of foresighted, public spirited men (and women too) should get together and raise the money to build a swimming pool, the interest on their investment that would accrue in human welfare and happiness would more than repay the expenditure. A pool so constructed that it could be used the year round, would be ideal. Why not make it a practical memorial?

Polish couple Write thanks

The Newmarket Lions club has received a letter of thanks from a Polish couple whose child required medical assistance. The club helped finance treatments to the child. We reprint the letter here because it reflects an honesty of gratitude which is sometimes rare.

"In regards to doctoring of our infant. As we understand that, in financial help, you, that is, your Lions club took the active part.

"That to us was a great comfort and joy to know that in this new to us country, we saw your effort on behalf of the needy. As we have lived in Canada only such a short time, just a year, and to finance the doctoring of our child would have been difficult as we have no financial funds.

"Now with great sincerity and joy, we express our hearty thanks for the help bestowed by you in the operation of our infant.

"With thanks."

LETTER TO EDITOR

Replies to 'Opinion' On high school cost

(The following letter was received from Mr. Wilfred Adams, Aurora teacher, in reply to a recent "Aurora Opinion", on the high cost and inadequacies of present day education.)

By WILFRED ADAMS

In your issue of September 21, a rather alarming attack was made on some educational policies and practices by your Aurora editor. We are disturbed not so much by the opinions expressed as by the knowledge that the writer is one who has indicated in many ways a keen, generous and progressive interest in community affairs.

It is difficult for us to believe that Mrs. Barker is serious in many of her observations but, even so, we are tempted to offer some comment.

No one will deny that our educational system is inadequate. What great public service is not? But to suggest that it is pathetic is quite another matter.

Was it a pathetic system of education which produced the boys whose intelligence, resourcefulness, leadership and valor saved us from Nazi domination? A great English historian has it that if some of our previous wars were won by the little educated lads from the village greens, the last war was won in the primary and secondary schools.

But, of course, we do not educate primarily to win wars but to seize the greater prizes of peace.

Mrs. Barker loosed so many arrows it is difficult to determine just what her chief target is. She is disturbed and perhaps with some justice, at what seems unreasonable and antiquated requirements for entrance to universities and some businesses. Latin, by the way, is not, as Mrs. Barker suggests, a compulsory credit for those who wish to become scientific farmers. Just why any particular credit should be demanded for entrance to a university course is not always obvious. In setting entrance requirements the university authorities attempt a screening process—a process which Mrs. Barker laments is not done sufficiently well at high school. However, screenings are constantly made throughout the whole high school course.

The universities are most anxious to admit all students who show by testing the ability and promise to make a worthwhile contribution to higher learning. So too, a keen businessman is interested not so much in credits as such, but rather in the promise, integrity and initiative which the credits might indicate. Any newspaper editor will doubtless make short work of the argument that as for newspaper men or women, copywriters, and authors "what they really need is credits in composition, grammar, typing and spelling". These are skills greatly to be desired but, surely, the office boy requires a deeper foundation for business and a surer one for life.

But Mrs. Barker's deadliest arrow seems to have been directed at the head, if not the heart, of our community—at the new $600,000 high school. We admit, not that Lincoln, Edison, Ford and Bell did not require $600,000 high schools, but only that they did not have them. Who of all men would be more gladdened than Lincoln to know that the educational opportunities denied to him and his times are now available to almost all? Perhaps $600,000 would be a meagre price to pay for just one more Lincoln.

But is $600,000 an outrageous price to pay for a high school in our area? Have we completely lost our sense of values? Are we really on a mad spending spree? Costs, after all, are relative things. Millions for a factory, more millions for a brewery or a cosmetic works, and half a million for a high school! For every dollar spent on education in this country several dollars are spent on luxuries and worse. Perhaps there is a mad spending spree going on.

It is common knowledge that our high school area board along with other officials, has spent endless hours of time and effort surveying the need, scanning and revising architect's plans and checking and rechecking costs. Their sole objective is to provide our students—within the capacity to pay—the best and widest opportunities for attainment in health, knowledge, skill and mental and moral discipline.

As we understand it, the new school is to have no frills—not even an assembly hall. It will possess the orthodox classrooms, science laboratories, home economics room, gymnasium, library and commercial and agricultural facilities. What services here would Mrs. Barker withhold in order to whittle down costs? I think we have a right to know.

If our high schools do not make for well-trained and well-adjusted and so refined and cultured citizens, then the case for secondary education breaks down to a large extent. But if we believe in its ultimate worth let us not begrudge the cost of an investment which holds the promise of fabulous rewards in richer, fuller lives. We never haggle over the cost of training for active service to meet the challenge of war. Let us be as ready to meet the cost of training for active service to meet the challenges of peace.

FAMILY OF 7 ESCAPES FIRE THANKS TO FATHER'S BRAVERY

Frank McConnell, of Bancroft, Ont., calmly and quickly evacuates children and invalid mother as home burns

1. There was no waste space in the small, two-room frame house. One room was occupied by Frank McConnell's 78-year-old mother, an invalid weighing 225 pounds... and the other by the McConnells and their four children. It was about 4:30 a.m. when 6-year-old Francis awakened his father screaming "The house is on fire!" Quickly McConnell rushed his wife and two of the youngsters outside.

2. By this time flames seemed to be everywhere... but McConnell plunged in and carried a child out under each arm through almost a wall of fire. One of the small boys had already suffered bad burns. McConnell's mother, however, was still trapped in the burning house and he knew she had to be saved. Rushing around to her room, he smashed the glass in the window.

3. In the ever-increasing fury of the fire it was not easy to drag a 225-pound invalid through a window—but determination gave McConnell added strength and he succeeded. For his heroic actions, where many a man might have panicked and failed, Frank McConnell deserves great praise. We are proud to pay him tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Lloyd—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Louisa Lloyd, who passed away October 23, 1944. With tears we watched you sink—
We watched you fade away;

We watched beside your bedside,
As the lonely hours passed;
But how our hearts were broken
When we saw you breathe your last.
Sadly missed by daughter Ethel and son Orval.

Milligan—In memory of dear mother, Eliza Mary Milligan, who passed away at Holland Landing. Deeply remembered by Emily and Harry, Langley Prairie, B.C.

Mitchell—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Isabelle Mitchell, who passed away October 31, 1943.
Oh, this earth would be a heaven

But still we don't forget.
For in the hearts that loved you best
Your memory lingers yet.
Too dearly remembered to ever be forgotten, Seth, Jack and Marie.

Moorby—In loving memory of a dear father, James Moorby, who passed away October 23, 1949. Farewell, dear father, thy work is o'er, Thy willing hands will toil no more; A loving father, kind and true, No one on earth we'll find like you. Ever remembered by Gladys and Edith.

Pickering—In loving memory of my dear uncle, Sgt. George Pickering, Irish Regiment of Canada, killed in Italy October 24, 1944. Remembrance is a golden chain Death tries to break, but all in vain. To have, to love, and then to part, Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart. The years may wipe out many things, But this they wipe out never—The memory of those happy days When we were all together. Sadly missed by niece Betty.

Haskett's HASH
BY GEORGE HASKETT
Newmarket Sports Editor

Showcases are opening on the district hockey teams. Fans had first look at junior and intermediate platoons last week. Herb Cain also breezed in with Aurora juniors for a visit. Joe Peat, mastermind of our junior C, and "Hack" Cain, seeking to give Aurora a winning junior B combo, are like the little old woman in the shoe, they have so many players, they don't know what to do.

Nobody will envy them the job of cutting some 40 odd players in each case down to the working minimum. Intermediate picture is confused. Some evenings not much to show for the summer-fall shopping service. Mostly the regulars of last year and that's been sliced as Joe Peat, Deb Cooper and Cliff Gunn seem to be sticking with their intention to retire. "Fink" Tunstead, another absentee, is reported out with Markham. On other occasions, coach Larry Molyneux and manager Father T. J. McCabe swing open the gates on newly acquired "hired hands" that should raise an eyebrow or two among the fans.

N.H.S. scores second win On gridiron circuit
Fred Speer's Newmarket high school griders are doing alright in the newly organized North York secondary schools football circuit. Friday, sparked by the high scoring of Jerry Hugo, the N.H.S. griders rolled to a 33-6 win over Beaverton. It was the second win for the squad. Hugo's heavy scoring included three touchdowns, four converts and a field goal. Alvin McKnight and Paul Morton collected the other N.H.S. points, crossing the Beaverline for major scores.

Frank Gregoire's Aurora squad gained its first victory of the season, over Sutton high 28-0. Dave Craydall counted three touchdowns to pace the Aurora recruits. Chas. Elthridge and Ken Ham contributed a touchdown each. Don Busby came through with two converts and Don Munshaw booted for a single point to manufacture the Aurora total.

Charles MacLeod elected Badminton vice president

Charles "Chuck" MacLeod was elected first vice president of the Newmarket Badminton club at the annual meeting held recently. It was reported last week that Jack Peppiatt had been chosen for this office. This was in error. Also on the executive committee and missed from last week's report were social convener Frances MacLeod and committee of Eva Whitfield, Margaret Teasdale and Isabel Sturgess. Other officials of the club mentioned last week were Florence Callaghan, president, Ken Peever, second vice president, and Agnes Gladman, secretary-treasurer.

THOMS TO COACH TANNERY
Harry "Silver" Thoms has been appointed coach of the Davis Leather hockey team of the Town League. Geo. Carr is manager. Coach Thoms had very little time juggling to do in Monday's Town League parade of talent with a roster of only seven players. Pete Neufeld and "Red" Waller of the Specialty came to the rescue to give the Tanners a helping hand with their overflow of talent.

IT'S A Woman's World

By CAROLINE ION

The Saturday morning of the Thanksgiving weekend dawned bright and clear and with the promise of warm, sunny weather we set out with high hopes. Unfortunately, the weatherman was not on our team for it rained practically all day Sunday obscuring the beautiful scenery and complicating the business of out-door cooking and eating considerably.

The trip from Newmarket to Niagara Falls was very pleasant and we relaxed and enjoyed the sight of the abundant harvests evident in the vineyards along the route. It was a glorious fall day and the unseasonable warmth was most welcome.

We made good time to the border, stopping briefly for a view of the falls. Familiarity can never dim their beauty. It is always with reluctance that we leave for we feel as if we could watch for an endless time the great torrents of water with their ever-changing colors cascading over the falls. Very quickly we had completed the necessary papers, answered the routine questions of the emigration officer and were on American soil.

The fall is a wonderful time of the year in which to make a motor trip. Everywhere there is the mellowness of golden color and the fulfillment of spring's promises. Great vans passed us carrying their cargos of red, ripe tomatoes to the canneries. At farm after farm as we drove along pickers were busy with the heavy apple harvest.

Prior to this trip we had not realized that the district between Lewiston and Rochester was such a tremendous apple growing area. The same fertility associated with the Niagara peninsula was evident here although there was not the same intensified cultivation of the land. Vineyards rich with clusters of grapes were to be found along the entire route. Local glad enthusiasts would have been delighted with the sight of the acres of commercially grown gladioli near Rochester. It was the largest massing of these flowers we had ever seen and they formed a brilliant splash of color.

While in that city we were most fortunate in our selection of a tourist home, staying with relatives of Earl Willis. We had our dinner on Saturday evening at Howard Johnston's, a restaurant which must be well known to Newmarket people judging by the number who recommended it to us. The food was delicious and although the service was a trifle slow it allowed ample opportunity for the enjoyment of the delightful interior with its hand-rubbed pine walls, exposed heavy rafters and interesting display of a varied collection of colored glass and copper utensils. After an afternoon of shopping in the crowded stores this quiet interlude was very restful.

The trip from Rochester through Canandaigua to Elmira was Watkins Glen, a state park opened almost 90 years ago. On the entrance mark it was described as a "book of nature" and a scenic wonder of the world. Dozens of water falls had cut great crevices in the rock and along the edges of these, through tunnels, up 700 steps (that's what they told us there were, but it certainly seemed like many hundred more that we climbed.) We wandered "ohing and aching" over all we saw. For the brief interlude which we spent at Watkins Glen the rain stopped, but its absence was not missed in the many sports where there was a constant dripping of water from the overhanging rocks. Great, smooth basins had been cut in the rock by the action of the waterfalls and looking down from the precarious heights as we climbed, we agreed that it really was a scenic wonder.

Vandorf News

The Vandorf Women's Institute chartered a bus for its tour to Toronto on October 18 when 37 ladies left Vandorf at 8:30 a.m. They went first to the home of the Laura Secord candies where they saw where so many tons of candy are made and packed every day for shipment to all parts of Canada.

One of the outstanding machines they saw was where the boxes were wrapped. For the first time in the history of the Laura Secord candies, they are displaying this year a pretty box for the Christmas season. When this tour was over they presented each member with a sample box of candy with two pamphlets, one was of the life story of Laura Ingessoll Secord and the other one was the story of our British flag, the Union Jack.

Then they visited Tip Top Tailors where 2,000 employees make 2,000 suits a day. The group left there about noon to go for lunch at the Diet Kitchen on Bloor St. Lunch consisted of a generous serving of cold ham, creamed potatoes, green peas, tomato juice and roll, fresh apple pudding dessert, with tea or coffee which everyone enjoyed.

After lunch the group arrived at the Happy Gang studios on Grenville St. This seemed such a good place for relaxation and a hearty laugh before going to Borden's Milk on Spadina Cres. about 3 p.m. As it was too late in the afternoon to see the machinery in actual operation, the party was shown a film on how all the processing of pasteurization and homogenized milk is done.

Then the ladies were taken out into a large hall where they could see some of the equipment where the bottling and packing was done. The lady in charge gave an interesting talk as well. Another film was shown and each served delicious ice cream, cake and coffee.

Entering the bus about 4:30 p.m., the party reached their respective homes all feeling that the trip had been beneficial and with hopes of arranging another tour soon. The many thanks of the party to the Agriculture and Canadian Industries convener, Mrs. Rollie Scott, and her committee who worked hard to make the tour possible.

Ice picture beginning to clear

Slowly but surely the district puck-chasers are beginning to sign on the dotted line as the coaches weed out some of the candidates who have been attending practices and the more serious stages of pre-season training starts. It used to be the boys and the officials signed O.H.A. cards willy-nilly. Now there's a matter of competition for players, a survey of the opposition rosters as can be best guessed, and some serious consideration on both sides as to what the season's jackpot will be.

Markham Millionaires, for instance, have added Robertson and Williams of Toronto Meteors, Allen who played with Ayr of the Scottish League, Jarvis of Eglipse, Clement of Stratford Juniors and Gage, a goalie from St. Mike's Buzzers, as definite newcomers to their squad. Hal Rogers of Aurora Indians had 38 players out to his first practice, and among the new faces signed are Bill Mulholland, who played goal for Stouffville Clippers last season, Harry Morrison, a winger who was with Midland last year, and Ken Broughton, former Newmarket boy who saw action in '50 with Orillia seniors, and Norm Melph from Kirkland Lake who resides at Oak Ridges. Morrison and Broughton are both residents in Aurora and working there.

From last year's tribe, Vic. Mehar, Bill Mundell, Lloyd Grove, Murray Brandon, Loring Doolittle, Tom Brodie, Bill Patrick, Norm Nigh, Ross Edwards, Mike Cosgrove were on hand. Last year's Aurora juniors contributed Ron Simmons, Bill Attridge, Bill McGhee, Toar Hill, Keith Wardell, and Bill Attridge. Ray Chartier, ex-R.C.A.F. player, Mike Brinkos and Ray Fox of Bradford, Alex Campbell, who plays softball with Harts, Don Willis, were new additions who looked good. Bill Mabett of Newmarket was at the practice but whether or not he intends to stay remains to be seen.

Herb Cain has his squad whittled down to about 24 players, but there's little word as to the new faces. Ed Williams, a sturdy defenceman from Toronto who looks really hot, Al Passmore, another Torontonian of "B" experience, and Oscar Mousley, goalie with Dixie Staffords, are three sure additions to the team, and before next Wednesday, the definite lineup will be known pretty well. The club has released Grant Green to Lindsay (last year Grant and Mitchell couldn't hit it off but appear to have patched up differences), and Keith Collings of Bradford. Collings, it is expected, will be with Newmarket juniors and he'll do a fine job with Joe Peat's squad. Pink Chard, who played goal for Weston juniors two years in a row, is with Brampton this season, while Mac Hillis of Elora intermediates, Brant Phillips of Galt, and one or two more have been signed by the Regents.

Vic Corley, a fugitive from Galt, has appeared at both the Brampton and Lindsay camps and isn't settled yet. Bob Lawrie, ex-Markham hockey star, is coaching the new Unionville junior B entry and there's some competition there for some of the Aurora players. There won't likely be ice in Unionville however until late November.

The Markham vs Stouffville feud still continues and there's some talk now that the O.H.A. will step in and set the number of new players that each club can have, and will order certain of the players to stay put or else. In any event, Stundon, George and Fred Scott, Watson, Singleton, Bell, Baker and Brennan of the Millionaires are working out exclusively and playing exhibition games with the Clippers and have cast the die so far as they are concerned. Watch for a bombshell announcement soon.

Stan James elected Sutton club president

Stan James was elected president of the Sutton intermediates hockey club at a meeting Friday. Roy Davis is vice president, Cliff Thompson, secretary treasurer. Directors are Keith Dunn, Bud Gilbey, John Leary and Bill Harris.

Ellis Pringle, one of the district's best known hockey players, has been named coach. A manager has not been named yet. The ranks of last year's team have been hard hit by the loss of several key players, but executive proposes staging a couple of practice sessions either at Newmarket or Aurora in next two weeks to see what material is available. Delegates attending Monday's Trolley League convention favored a return if a team could be lined up.

SPORTS EDITORIAL

Don't sign until sure

By GEORGE HASKETT

Item one to smack you in the eye when you enter the O.H.A. offices is a prominent reminder: "Don't sign anything until you know what you're signing". That's the advice your paragrapher has to offer to the junior hockey players of this district. Believe me, after kicking around hockey teams for night onto 20 years, take our advice and don't get roped in on that "sign here" monkey business without first getting the facts.

When the coaches and managers shuffle around with a come hither look in their eye, a fountain pen in one hand and a request for your "John Henry", ask: "Do I play regular or am I the fifth defenseman or the 13th forward?" Regardless of all that's been said, three forward strings, four defensemen and two goalies is all any team can use in a game. If you're not one of the lucky 15, you know what it means—you'll be gathering slivers this winter in the seat of your pants. Don't do it! You won't improve one bit sitting on the bench watching someone else make the plays and we don't care whether you're watching the best junior B hockey or any other grade for that matter and under the best coach this side or the other side of the N.H.L.

Don't be sucked in with that old horseradish about "We'll see you get a chance up in pro". Your chances of going into the big money paying ranks from junior are about as slim as yours truly securing a junior certificate. Hard to believe but when you hit junior, you're getting old. Nowadays, the scouts look to get 'em big and fast and at midget and in exceptional cases, in juvenile, but hardly ever in junior.

One other point you might tuck under your bonnets. You play for the town you live in, if it has a junior team, regardless of past affiliations. You play there or get a release. If outside interests want you bad enough they'll offer you a job and you move in lock, stock and slippers by November and then you can play for them. The O.H.A. isn't looking too favorably on this five-day-a-week commuting system some teams are trying to work.

So a final reminder, don't sign until you find out whether you're going to be a regular or a bench warmer. Too many lads who might have been hockey players gave up after a year watching from the players' pew, or kicking around dressing rooms saying "Do I play tonight, coach?"

Miami bowlers honor Secretary Courtney

Last Friday evening, "Miami" bowlers of the indoor lawn bowling club paid honor to Frank Courtney, the club's energetic secretary-treasurer since its inception, for his untiring efforts and service to the organization. Andrew Murdison, retiring president of the club, in paying tribute to Mr. Courtney, read and presented him with an engraved copy of "A Game Guy's Prayer". Dr. C. VanderVoort, J. O. Little and Tom Surgeoner followed with testimonials to Mr. Courtney and he was then presented with an electric blanket and a floral bouquet for Mrs. Courtney. It was the annual meeting of the indoor lawn bowling club but the presentation was a complete surprise to Mr. Courtney. Officers elected for the coming season are: pres., L. B. Rose; first vice pres., J. O. Little; second vice pres., G. L. Manning; secretary, Frank Courtney; directors, Geer, Bell, Jelley, Hudson; house com., Courtney, Hudson, Willis, Scott, Gibson, T. Birrell; games com., Bell, Jelley, Bain, Stiver, Macnab, Brammer, Hugo; auditor, P. Tod. "Miami" club has 64 charter members and activities on the "greens" are expected to commence immediately after the closing of the lawn bowling season.

FIVE CLUBS COMPETE IN DEER SHOOT

Five archery clubs were represented at the Fall Deer Shoot at the Newmarket Archery club field course at Glenville Sunday. Seventy-four archers from Brant Bowmen (Brantford), Chicopee Archers (Kitchener), Lake Shore (Long Branch), Sherwood Glenn (Toronto), and Newmarket clubs entered the contest.

A number of the archers are planning a November deer hunting trip and with this in mind the Newmarket club had 22 life size deer models set up around the course. The archers enjoying a full day of target shooting.

Geo. Mills of Lakeshore club captured top honors in deer shoot with a 315 total and received the trophy presented by the Newmarket Archery club. Second was Ray Martin of Lake Shore and third F. Connell of Brant Bowmen. The Newmarket club expects to make this an annual event. Jack Shropshire captured first prize in the men's field shoot and Agnes Burrell of Lake Shore club was first in the ladies division. Bob Chadwick Jr. captured junior boys' honors and Frances Markham junior girls' first prize.

MOUNT ALBERT SERIOUS

"Don't forget us if there's an opening in the town league." That's the word from Mount Albert. A pair of phone calls from Horace Berwick and Ross Draper confirms that the Mounties are serious about entering town hockey league. The Mounties are hoping to have a practice in Newmarket this week is the report.

GIBSON TO SUDBURY

Four vital steps to security (with something important in common)

1. A steady job is the foundation of security. And job-security can be increased by showing initiative — the quality which, surveys prove, makes workers most valuable. Life insurance dollars, invested in industries and public works, create many new jobs each year.

2. Owning your own home builds security two ways. It allows you to make a sound investment through regular savings, and it brings freedom from housing worries. Hundreds of thousands of Canadians now own their own homes, built with the help of life insurance dollars.

3. Cash resources, such as savings accounts and Canada Savings Bonds, promote security by providing funds for emergencies. And it is important to save regularly. Life insurance helps you save systematically — for family protection, retirement and other future needs.

4. Life insurance protects you and your family as you build security in all these other ways. It helps to provide income for your retirement. And it guarantees your dependants an income in the event of your death. Thus by owning life insurance you take your most vital step to security!

Six-year-old Sally Brice shows the photographer just how it should be done. It was Sally's insistence on figure skating lessons which led her mother, Mrs. Howard Brice, to start the club.

The Newmarket Figure Skating club had its first lesson last Thursday at the Newmarket arena, and the club is well launched into a weekly routine of instruction on Thursday, and practice sessions on Tuesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

"Towards the end of the season, we intend to have a skating carnival when the public will have an opportunity to see just how well the children have progressed," said Mrs. Howard Brice, Arden Ave., Newmarket, whose energy and interest started the club on its way to success.

Six-year-old Sally Brice was determined to learn to figure skate and with her mother, used to make the trip to Toronto twice a week for lessons. "It was too much," her mother confesses. "I thought to myself there must be a lot of youngsters who would like to take figure skating lessons but can't make the trip to Toronto."

During the summer, Mrs. Brice phoned about 150 mothers who seemed to like the idea. "So I got in touch with the arena manager to see what we could arrange and our club is the result."

Harold Hartley, Toronto, no stranger to Newmarket ice since he has appeared in an ice show here, has been hired as an instructor. The dues paid by club members cover the cost of ice and instructor and the school will continue until April.

Membership in the club is over 150 and ranges in age from mop-pets to young married couples. "We have as large a membership now as we can carry with our present ice time," said Mrs. Brice. "We have a waiting list of about 40 and anyone else interested in joining the club will have to take his turn on the list. If we get more ice time, however, we may be able to enlarge our membership."

In an average package there are approximately 93 yards of spaghetti.

Urge Federation schedule For all women teachers

Seventy public school women teachers spent last Saturday in the school auditorium at Richmond Hill planning the fall and winter work of their associations. Representatives from Toronto and many localities in York and Peel counties including Newmarket, discussed the reports of the provincial conveners of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario.

Miss Beryl Wood, president of the federation, and Mrs. Helen Ward, provincial secretary, were present to bring greetings to the gathering. Miss Dorothy Martin, a governor for region three of the Ontario Teachers' Federation, was in charge.

After a devotional period, and sing-song, discussion groups were formed to study policy. In keeping with the Federation theme for 1950-51 of "Broader Horizons", the teachers considered how they might take a more active part in community life. They are concerned too with television as it affects the lives of their pupils; the advisability of urging the Canadian National Exhibition to erect an Education Building; and the way come comics have been replaced by sex comics.

At the luncheon hour in the Presbyterian church, O. M. MacKillop, public school inspector, delighted his audience by his humorous address. Miss Mabel Harbron and Mrs. May Pope, of York I Association, were responsible for the arrangements and acted as hostesses to the visiting delegates.

The conference, which rated high in the estimation of the teachers, stressed the fact that great achievements come by united effort. Co-operation between department of education officials, boards of trustees, supervisors, inspectors and teachers achieves this objective which is "to promote and advance the cause of education."

Points recommended were (1) That each teacher should endeavour to maintain, by act as well as by word, the established federation basic salary schedule; (2) That he should refrain from knowingly underbidding fellow applicants for teaching positions; (3) If a salary schedule has not been discussed with board members pointing out its advantage not only to the teacher but to the board and the whole community, such discussion should take place at an early date.

Questionnaires relative to the third point have already been sent out to the finance conveners of each association for distribution to the women teachers of Ontario. They are to be filled by November 30. The aim this year is "A Salary Schedule for every teacher in the province."

A beneficial radio program entitled "Adult Education" over C.B.L. Thursdays at 9 p.m. D.S.T. was recommended. Delegates from Newmarket attending the conference were Miss Eva Barnes, a director of the F.W.T.A.O., Miss Evelyn Denne, research convener of Newmarket unit, Mrs. Myrtle Purcell, president of the Newmarket unit and Mrs. Irene Proctor, research convener of York I.

Aluminum plant - Kingston, Ont.

Unloading ingots

Final inspection

Half-way House between Aluminum Ingot and You

With an axe and a few other hand tools, our ancestors could chop down trees and make houses, chairs, bowls, canoes — lots of things. But all these were heavy and had many other disadvantages. It's different now that we have aluminum — which is light, rustless, won't burn, doesn't rot... is practically everlasting.

It takes a whole series of unusual and complicated "techs" to make things of aluminum. To start with, it takes ships to import the ore, ports for unloading, powerhouses for electricity, smelters... all these to produce the aluminum itself, still only in ingot form.

Next, it takes a plant like the Alcan one at Kingston to receive these ingots from the smelters and to shape the metal into tubes, sheets, extrusions, forgings and rolls. Finally, it takes more than 1000 Canadian manufacturers to form all these into chairs, kitchen utensils, building materials, airplanes, etc. — things Canadians use every day.

So, you see, this Kingston plant is "half-way" between ingot and finished article, between the original environment and you. It is a link in the chain of "techs" which, over the last fifty years, Canadians have co-operated to make aluminum articles — creating work and wealth, bringing greater convenience and comfort to modern living.

York County Hospital
Women's Aid gives Annual reports

In presenting a report of the social activities of the York County Hospital Women's Aid at the annual meeting, Mrs. Arleigh Armstrong, refreshment convener, said, "May I first take this opportunity of expressing my sincere gratitude for the assistance of those five ladies, Mrs. Frank Courtney, Mrs. J. O. Little, Mrs. Gerald Wainman, Mrs. Bertram Budd and Mrs. Jack Booth, who were good enough to offer their services as permanent members of the refreshment committee. Of necessity, the refreshment department of such an organization as ours is a busy one, but the interest and devotion of this group of ladies has made the task a pleasant and profitable one and any success we may have enjoyed from our various social functions has been due in great part to their unflinching efforts."

"At the inaugural meeting of this present Hospital Aid, Mrs. W. A. McCaffrey kindly offered the use of her home for an opening tea which was held during the latter part of April. A large number of guests enjoyed her hospitality and many new members were added to the membership list."

"On May 10, York County hospital celebrated national Hospital Day by holding open house. Conducted tours were arranged, tea was served and the public response to this invitation was most gratifying since a cross section of the county to the number of 150 persons availed themselves of the opportunity to inspect the internal mechanism of their institution."

"On July 8, a garden tour of homes at Roche's Point was arranged in conjunction with the Roche's Point Memorial club as represented by Mrs. R. A. Laidlaw. The Hospital Aid supplied tea and cakes for 300 persons as did the conveners of the Memorial club. Despite the heat of the day and the transportation difficulties involved, our members were well represented and the occasion was a most profitable one for the aid. Definitely a vote of thanks is due to the good ladies of Roche's Point who were so generous in permitting us to share in their benefit."

"In closing, I should like to thank all our members who have been so kind and patient and generous in their donations of time, money and baking. At the three functions which have been mentioned in this report, all food was donated, and because many of our members live in outlying parts of the county and can not be easily contacted, of necessity the greater number of donations have come from Newmarket and its environs and it is to these people particularly that the refreshment committee would like to express its sincere thanks for past kindnesses and hope for continued co-operation."

"On July 8, a garden tour of homes at Roche's Point was arranged in conjunction with the Roche's Point Memorial club as represented by Mrs. R. A. Laidlaw. The Hospital Aid supplied tea and cakes for 300 persons as did the conveners of the Memorial club. Despite the heat of the day and the transportation difficulties involved, our members were well represented and the occasion was a most profitable one for the aid. Definitely a vote of thanks is due to the good ladies of Roche's Point who were so generous in permitting us to share in their benefit."

"In closing, I should like to thank all our members who have been so kind and patient and generous in their donations of time, money and baking. At the three functions which have been mentioned in this report, all food was donated, and because many of our members live in outlying parts of the county and can not be easily contacted, of necessity the greater number of donations have come from Newmarket and its environs and it is to these people particularly that the refreshment committee would like to express its sincere thanks for past kindnesses and hope for continued co-operation."

Entertainment

In a report of the entertainment committee of the York County Hospital Women's Aid at the annual meeting, Mrs. J. W. Bowman, convener, announced that all future general meetings of the aid would include an entertainment feature.

Mrs. Bowman extended the thanks of the organization to Mr. L. Young, manager of Roxy theatre, Newmarket, for making possible a Hospital Aid theatre night. This was held on June 29 with Claudette Colbert starring in the romantic comedy, "Bride for Sale."

Miss Thomas, superintendent of the York County hospital, spoke to the April general meeting regarding the needs of the hospital.

The October meeting was addressed by Dr. R. M. King of the recently organized York County Health unit.

In connection with the aid's opening tea on April 21, which was held at the home of Mrs. W. A. McCaffrey, Mrs. Bowman extended the appreciation of the organization to Mrs. Lou Stevens who supplied appropriate piano selections. Mrs. Bowman said that credit was due Mrs. J. C. R. Edwards for organizing transportation for the Roche's Point garden tour on July 8 and that they were honored to have the staff nurses conduct tours of the hospital in conjunction with the hospital tea on May 10.

Public relations

Mrs. Howard Cane, convener of the public relations committee, has had a busy time since the reorganization of the York County Hospital Women's Aid in March. Reporting on her activities at the annual meeting which was held in the agricultural board room on October 3, she said, "I have had the privilege of speaking at the Sharon Women's Hobby club, the District Annual Institute at Belhaven and the District Annual Institute at King. In this way I have been able to interest a large rural group of ladies in the welfare and needs of York County hospital. "Their support and response has been most gratifying."

Membership

In a report presented at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid of York County hospital, Mrs. W. A. McCaffrey, membership convener, said that the paid membership stands at 179, compiled as follows: 113, Newmarket; 32, Aurora; 13, Sharon; six, Queensville; four, King; three, Mount Albert; two, Armitage; two, Vandorf; one, Keswick; one, Sutton West; one, Schomberg; and one, Oak Ridges.

In connection with the work of this committee a total of 440 letters and notices have been sent out since March, 1950, covering the reorganization of the aid, teas, garden tour and annual meeting.

The Common Round...

By Isabel Inglis Colville

VIGNETTES

Some day I hope to write a serial, "From a Car Window". Sitting in a car on the Main Street of any town or city, one has glimpses of lives that one would never come in contact with otherwise.

One day lately we parked in front of Spillette's and I amused myself by watching a town character, namely the elderly black and white spaniel that also parks there. Once in a while, he made excursions here and there, always of short duration, only to return and plant himself firmly in the centre of the doorway. And then it was I saw things that delighted and intrigued me.

Nearly everyone who entered the store walked carefully round him and 50 percent had a word for him, which he accepted as his due. But the really delightful occurrence came just before we moved away. A little lad of perhaps four years was waiting outside the shop for his people when the dog returned and settled down with a solid grunt of satisfaction.

Immediately the tiny lad stooped down and oh so gently put a small hand on the broad black and white back. Then he got a little closer and whispered in the long ear. The black and white gentleman endured but did not reciprocate — something like a blasé movie star.

But the other actor in the drama was not to be discouraged. Round he came and down he went on his small knees in front of the dog and the last I saw of it, they were still indulging in a somewhat one-sided conversation. But what charmed me was the gentleness and consideration of the child for an animal. I formed my opinion then and there of the home from which he came.

A Little Cat Tale

One day in early August, I was getting something ready for lunch when I heard the funny little call that cats—my cats, at any rate—give when they have discovered a treasure: usually a mouse, and went to share their joy.

So, obedient to the call, I went to the door and looked out. Then I rubbed my eyes and looked again—for Frisky, a very junior miss, was preparing to bring into the house for my and her amusement, a two-foot long and very much alive snake! The screen door was open and it was only Frisky's call that kept me from entertaining this strange visitor.

I looked at Frisky and Frisky looked at me and I said to her, "You are not to bring it into the house and you are not going to kill it!" I'd just heard a broadcast telling of how much use our common snakes are in a garden.

So, up with the Bonnets of Bonnie Dundee or up with the broom and dustpan of Colville. So armed with these useful weapons I advanced on Frisky and her wriggly guest. I looked at the tail and I gazed at the head—which would I try to get on the dustpan first? I never knew snakes were so slippery. However, after three tries I got it sort of coiled and off we went to some bushes where I left it, returning triumphant to my baking, to the accompaniment of Frisky's indignant lamentations.

Peace reigned. Then, again I heard Frisky's complacent murmur and looking out saw her preparing to bring her recaptured snake into the house. Ah-ah! said I sternly, but flushed with success, Frisky was having no interference, so it was me for the broom and dustpan again.

This time it was easier: either my hand had gained in cunning or the snake was too far gone to care. Anyway off we went to a distant bush and to my surprise off went Mr. Snake like lightning and I saw him no more—he never even said "thanks for the ride!"

I think Friskarina—to give her proper name—must belong to the "bring them back alive" club, for yesterday she brought, in quick succession, a mouse, a praying mantis and some other creature I couldn't identify. What today will bring, only Frisky knows!

SHREDDED WHEAT

YOUNG HOPEFULS BY DOROTHY MUM BOWMAN

Innocent remark spoils Career of entertainer

Judy, a teen-ager, is stalled in her ability to speak before an audience.

As a very young child, Judy delighted everyone with recitations. Judy was always the one first thought of when children's programs were being planned. Her parents and her teachers in school and Sunday-school could always count on Judy giving a very creditable performance.

In her early teens, Judy had an extensive repertoire of recitations and was quite competent to supply a full evening of entertainment. Judy's audience appeal was tremendous and Judy was thrilled with her success as a performer.

Then suddenly Judy refused all invitations to recite. It was so unlike Judy that her parents and teachers were very much disturbed and her closest friends were puzzled.

Judy seemed to have lost her spirit. For the sake of her parents, she did try to continue her lessons; but she would break down so often that it was decided she shouldn't have to suffer the ordeal which her lessons had become.

In looking back—Judy's last public appearance had been unusually successful. As usual, Judy had been swamped with admiring friends and strangers from the audience who were eager to congratulate her.

On the way home Judy became pensive, but it was thought that she was tired after the day's excitement. That evening Judy retired early and spent a very restless night. By morning she looked and acted as if she had lived an awful nightmare. Her happy eagerness and bubbling enthusiasm became just a memory and she emerged a quiet and frightened child.

Although Judy gradually overcame her shyness in private life, she was finished as far as public engagements were concerned. In her late teens she confessed that one of the remarks innocently handed her by one of the strangers in her last audience had shocked her completely and left an indelible impression: "Your last piece was my sister's favorite. She's in an asylum now, but she keeps repeating that piece. You do it almost as well; but then, she's had more practice."

Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Allen, Wellington St. E., Aurora, were at home to many relatives and friends on Wednesday, Oct. 4, on the occasion of their Golden Wedding anniversary. During the afternoon and evening many called to pay respect to the bride and groom of 50 years.

Mrs. Allen received in blue crepe and corsage of yellow and white 'mums, the gift of her youngest granddaughter, Judith Lorraine Allen.

Beautiful cards and gifts were received by the happy couple and the evening concluded with the singing of hymns and closing with prayer by Lieut. and Mrs. Robinson.

Needlecraft News

by Pauline Roy

CHRISTMAS is truly the children's holiday. We can all think back to the days when we awaited that eventful morn with mixed feelings of happiness and anxiety. Would there be delectable surprises or hard, black coal in the over-sized stockings hung from the fireplace? Creeping down the stairs at 5:30 a.m. we'd peek over the rail and behold that breathtaking spectacle of the Christmas tree in all its glittering splendor. Then with a final self-satisfied smirk we'd tumble down the rest of the steps to start the full, long day that is Christmas.

Now that those bubbling childhood days are past we can relive them in the experiences of our children. Of course, we want the present young generation to enjoy Christmas just as much as we did in the past. So let's try to make this Christmas a memorable one for them. Don't feel that you have to rush out and buy them every article for which they've ever expressed a whim. Children are funny that way—one day or week they talk of nothing else but a bicycle. It would seem that that is the one thing to make their simple lives complete. And before you know it the word bicycle is strangely missing from their chatter, to be replaced by a sudden desire for a dog. And so it goes from one week to the next.

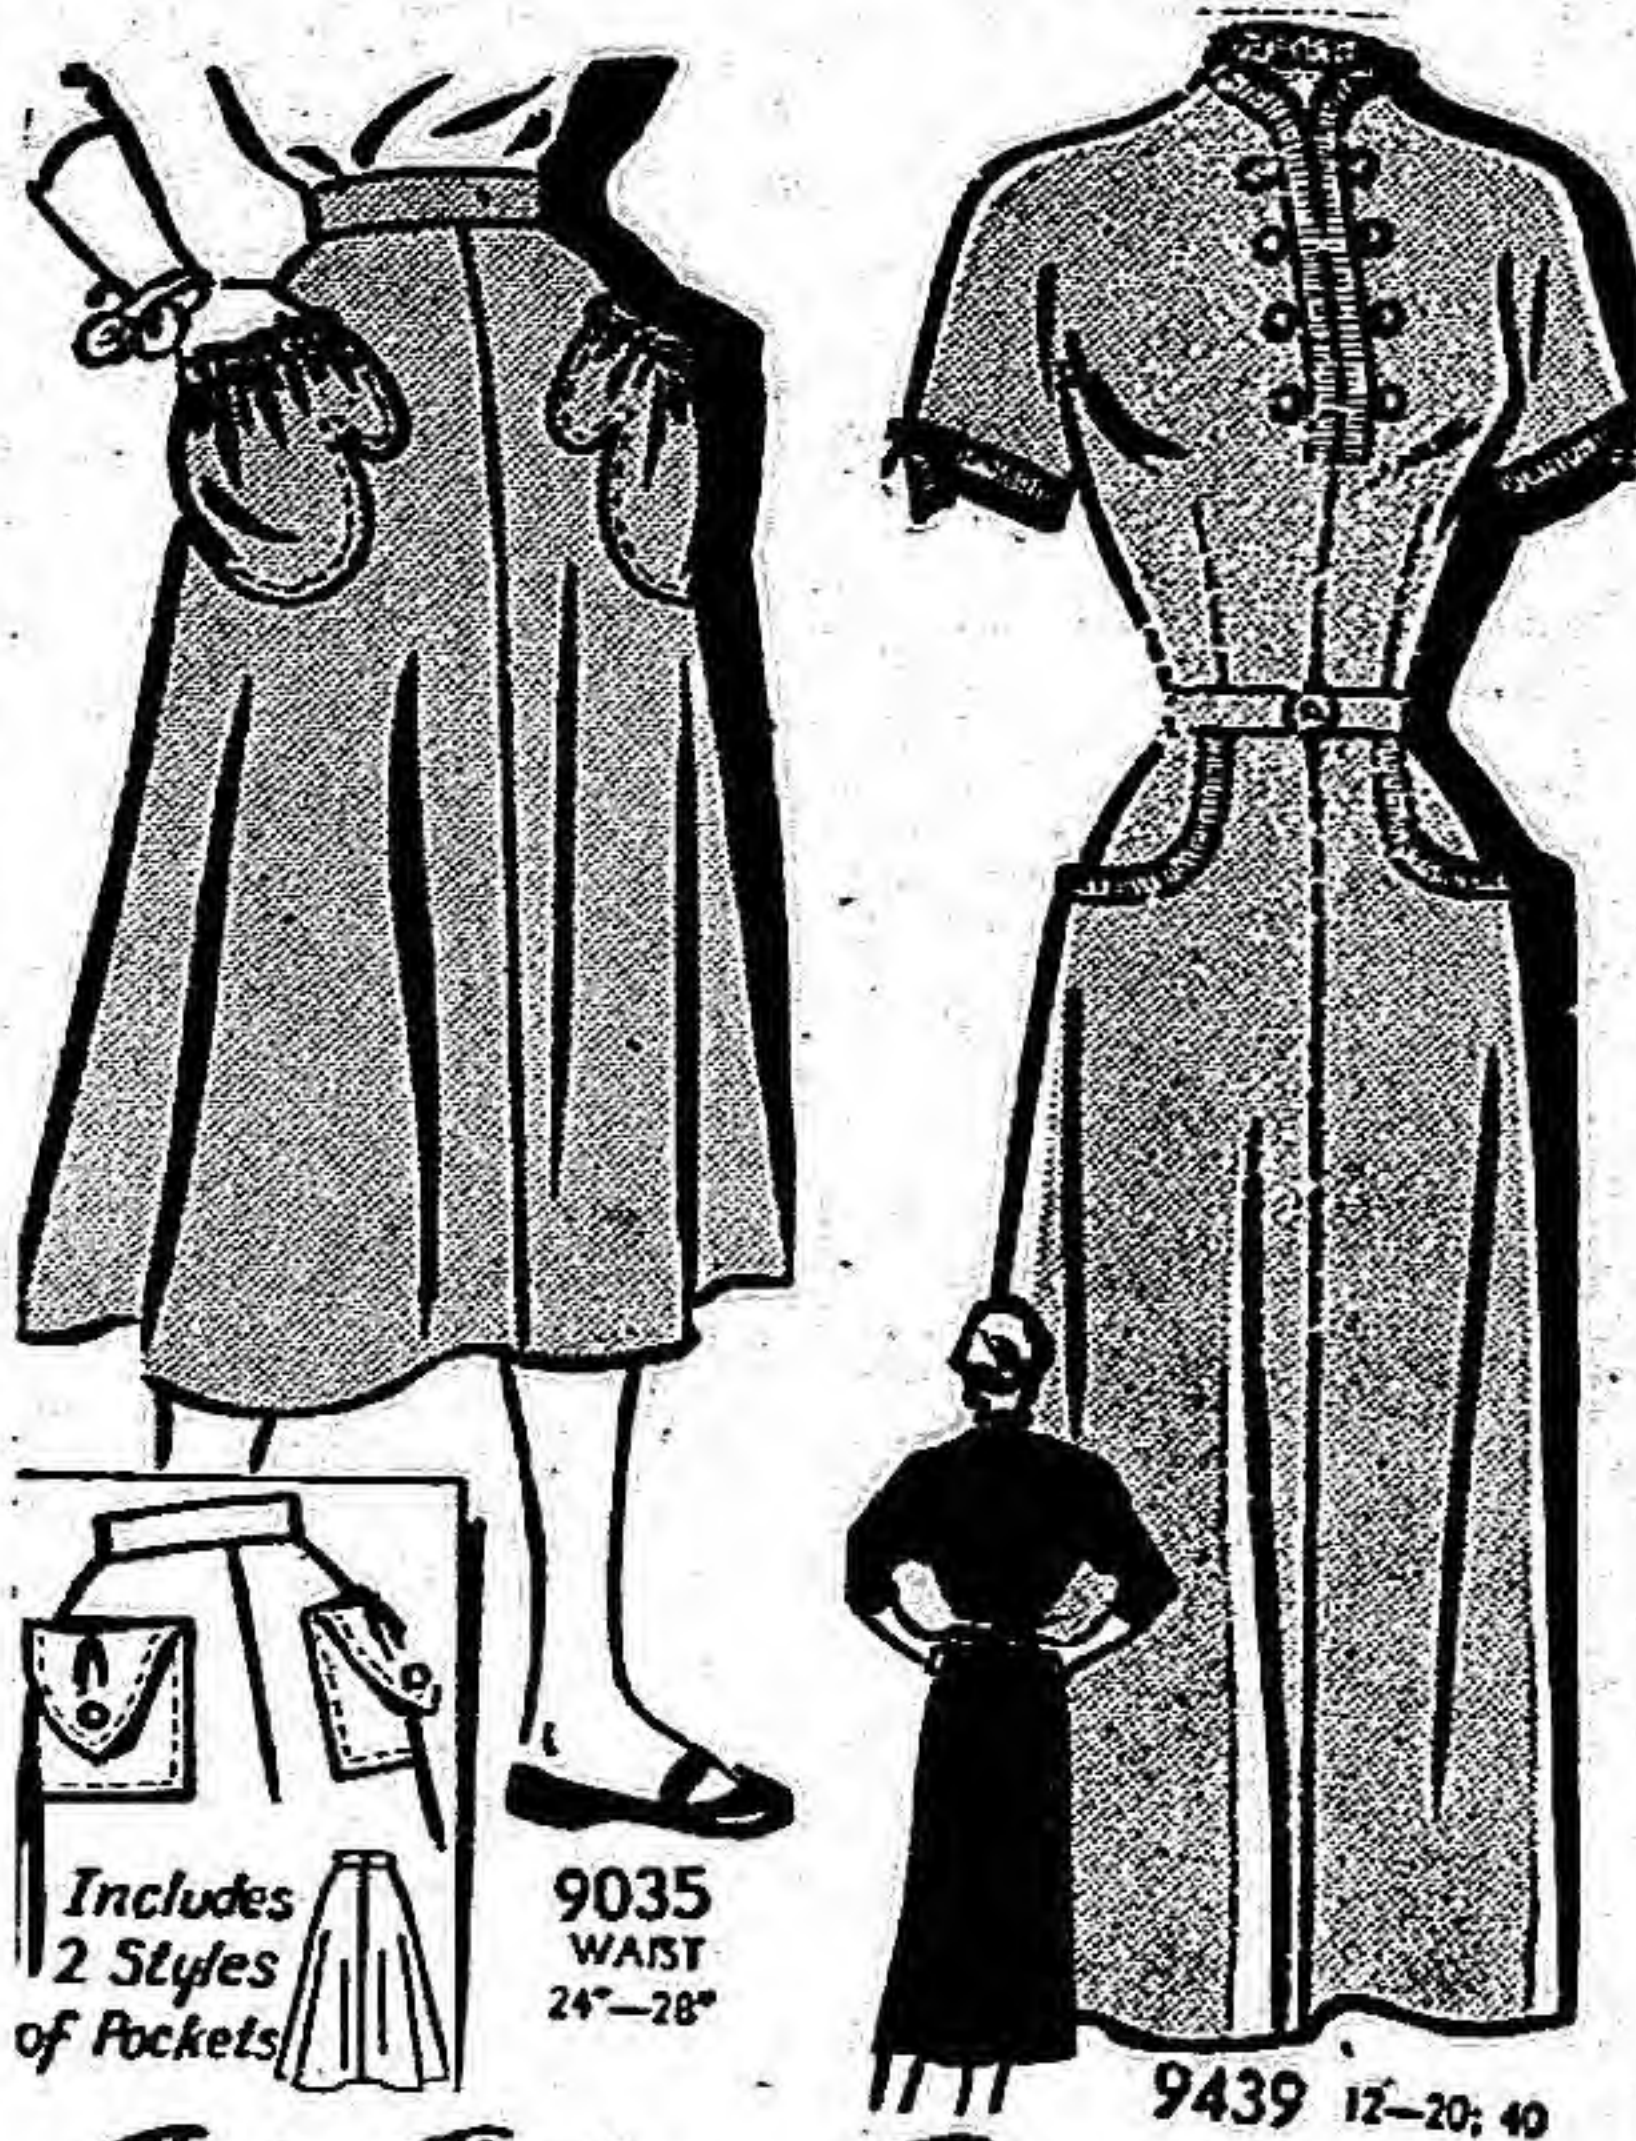

Perhaps you've noticed your young daughter clinging to an old, chipped doll and passing up many of her newer toys. Or your son may practically sleep with an old, scarred scooter at his bedside, leaving his shiny toys and games in a closet. With children the word or appearance of a favorite toy doesn't mean a thing—it's the happiness which that particular toy or game affords them that counts.

Dolls you can cuddle are usually favored with the very small fry. Soft toys with no sharp edges or metal parts that they can take to bed with them. The saucy little miss, pictured above, is an example of this type of toy. Right from the top of her black cotton shoes the smooth and soft. All you require to make this little doll, is half a yard of peach color percale, a few gingham or percale scraps for the clothing and cotton batting for the stuffing. If you start right away you'll have it completed in good time for that all-important twenty-fifth day of December. You can obtain directions for making the DOLL, Leaflet No. S-149, by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Dept. of this paper.
